REPORT ON JOINT TEST

In Complaint for Carriage of Western Pacific Broadcast, LLC, Memorandum Opinion and Order, DA 14-231 (rel. February 20, 2014) ("WACP Order"), the Bureau ordered Armstrong Utilities, Inc. ("Armstrong") and Western Pacific Broadcast, LLC ("WACP") to conduct a joint test of the WACP signal at the Armstrong headend and to present a joint report of the parties on the signal tests. A joint test was performed. That test was attended by consulting engineer, Todd Loney, and station engineer, Greg Kraft, both participating as representatives of WACP. Armstrong tendered to WACP an Armstrong-prepared document entitled "JOINT TEST REPORT." The technical portion of the document includes 57 pages of technical discussion and test results under the signature of Edward Hassler, an engineer with Armstrong, with attached details and conclusions of Dennis Wallace, an engineer with the consulting firm of Meintel, Sprignoli, & Wallace, both participating in the tests as representatives of Armstrong. Armstrong's "JOINT TEST REPORT" was only provided to WACP today, the due date of the Joint Report. As a result, WACP'S engineers have not had adequate time to evaluate the Armstrong report and, accordingly, WACP cannot adopt the report as its own.

That said, WACP can report that WACP's engineers were present at the April 14, 2014 signal tests. They witnessed a signal strength exceeding the "good quality signal" threshold of -61 dBm, and also witnessed fragmentations, artifacts, or other disturbances in the received WACP picture, which did not appear to them to be de minimis. Thus, in view of the conclusions of WACP's engineers as to their observations in the Joint Test on April 14, 2014, consistent with Paragraph 28 of the WACP Order, with the exception of use by WACP of alternative delivery means set forth in footnote 106, Armstrong should not be required to carry the station.

Respectfully submitted,
